

About CatholicCare Sydney

We are the social services agency of the Archdiocese of Sydney. For over 80 years, we have worked to fulfill our mission by providing direct care and support to people in need across Sydney. Our range of services offered across many locations also aim to enhance the capacity of individuals, families, and communities to care for and support themselves and each other.

Information collected

CatholicCare collects personal information about those who work with us and our service users which may include details such as your name and address, date of birth, phone number and sometimes, your health or other sensitive information. This information is only collected where necessary.

Use and disclosure of information

CatholicCare may use the information you give us for the purposes of:

- Assessing what services you require and whether we can provide those services
- Recording essential information for providing you with a service
- Evaluating ongoing services provided to you
- Assessing your application to become a volunteer or contractor or employee
- Research and analysis that assists with our service delivery, funding and reporting
- Sending information about our programs, special events and fundraising programs

Where reasonably possible, CatholicCare will only collect information from the individual to whom it relates.

Frequently this will be collected from interviews with you but it may also be collected from email, letters, use of our website or other forms of communication.

Your personal information is only used where it is necessary for CatholicCare to provide services, carry out our work and fundraising. Personal information collected for a specific purpose will not be used for any other purpose, unless you would reasonably expect CatholicCare to use or disclose the information for that purpose. Your personal information will not be disclosed to third parties without your consent, unless
